

The program 45.03.01 of the direction of “Domestic Philology” gives students the opportunity to master the Russian language, study its history, oral folk art, the history of Russian literature, as well as gain knowledge of dialectology and ethnolinguistics. The program includes a course of another Slavic language (Serbian or Polish to choose from) to deepen knowledge of the Russian language, comparative studies, as well as to develop competence in intercultural interaction within the Slavic cultural space. There are plans to study a foreign European language and foreign literature, as well as Japanese or Chinese to choose from to get acquainted with the oriental language and culture and a deeper understanding of the peculiarities of the Russian language. The program includes courses on how to create and edit various kinds of texts. Educational and industrial practices allow to apply your knowledge and skills. There is also an opportunity of training according to an individual plan.

Program director - Litvinova Irina Alexandrovna, Associate Professor

E-mail: iabobrysheva@sfedu.ru